Lyngblomsten Foundation 30th Anniversary 1985–Today

MORE IN THIS ISSUE:
National Family Caregivers Month
Utilizing Planners to Maximize Gifts and Estate Plans
Dear Readers,

People have been giving to Lyngblomsten for about 110 years. What one thing connects all these donors from 11 different decades? Caring. Caring for family, for neighbors, for strangers. Caring with an understanding that joining one’s caring with that of others’ will multiply the impact.

Certainly that is the case as we consider the legacy of philanthropy—giving with concern for human welfare—that weaves together the generations of people serving and being served through Lyngblomsten. In this edition, we look at the impact a community of “someones like you who care a whole awful lot” has had through gifts to the Lyngblomsten Foundation. The millions of dollars raised through the years has surely made life better for the older adults in our community.

Caring comes in many forms, and this edition is full of ways to care and to be cared for. I hope you will engage in the opportunities that resonate with you.

Don’t just live; leave a legacy!

A Legacy of Philanthropy: The Lyngblomsten Foundation Celebrates 30 Years

By Christina Rhein, Lyngblomsten

A Long History of Fundraising

Lyngblomsten began as a dream in the minds of 11 Norwegian women when they found their hearts stirred by the plight of the elderly who needed care in Minnesota. Their strong commitment to this vision of providing a Christian home grew, and they convinced hundreds of people along the way to help them find the means to do their work. Through bake sales, ice cream socials, auctions, rummage sales, bazaars, lutefisk suppers, waffle luncheons, and other activities, the founding women raised $30,000 between 1906 and 1911 to begin construction on Lyngblomsten’s first home for the elderly. Their noble mission, faith, and hard work helped to establish a network of supporters, organized as branches, whose commitment came in the form of monetary and in-kind gifts. Today, charitable giving is orchestrated through the efforts of the Lyngblomsten Foundation, which celebrates its 30th anniversary this year.

While fundraising for Lyngblomsten has occurred for more than a century, the Lyngblomsten Foundation was not formally organized until 1985. Due to the need to separate donations and fundraising expenses from resident fees and care delivery costs, the Foundation was established to support the mission of Lyngblomsten by serving as the fundraising arm of the organization to acquire and distribute funds to support Lyngblomsten’s programs and services.

Expanding the services, ensuring the continuity of services, and bolstering the quality of Lyngblomsten’s care is as dependent on generous gifts today as it was 110 years ago. As we reflect on the Lyngblomsten Foundation’s past 30 years of service, the impact it has had on helping Lyngblomsten carry out its mission is evident.

Impact of the Last 30 Years

Howard Olson was appointed as the Executive Director of the newly created Lyngblomsten Foundation, with 1985 marking a new era of fundraising for Lyngblomsten. Foundation activities in 1985 centered on launching a $2.25 million capital campaign, “Reaching Together,” to support the long-range plan adopted in 1984 under the leadership of then President and CEO Wallace Hauge. The capital campaign was successful, surpassing the goal amount by fall of 1986, with enough funds needed to start work on a multipurpose chapel, gift shop, and dining room additions.

1987 marked a celebration year of completion of the Newman-Benson Chapel, a visible testament to Lyngblomsten’s heritage and a reminder of our commitment to serve spiritual as well as physical and emotional needs. It also marked completion of four Husby Dining rooms, remodeled nursing and activity areas, and improvements to the physical plant and public areas, creating a more efficient, comfortable Care Center. This time also began the tradition of using major donor names in the naming of facilities and programs funded by campaigns.

If you believe in the mission of Lyngblomsten, it is no problem asking people to support it. Taking care of our elderly is Biblically based. Without supporters there would be no Lyngblomsten."

In 1992, the Lyngblomsten Foundation dedicated itself again to raising major funds for two needs: building a much-needed endowment to support future service needs, and building new senior housing on the Lyngblomsten campus. The theme, “Faithful to the Vision; Committed to the Promise,” was chosen to describe the new capital campaign’s goal to carry on the vision of Lyngblomsten’s founders. The Board members and staff of Lyngblomsten identified the need for additional senior housing and decided to do what “needed to be done” for this to become a reality. This was a bittersweet time for the organization, because what needed to be done was demolish the original building the founding women had labored so hard to create. The new building, The Heritage at Lyngblomsten, opened in October 1994 and offered 60 units, all of which were occupied within two weeks of opening. The campaign was completed in 1995, raising more than $1.2 million.

In December 1996, the Lyngblomsten Foundation received a $25,000 grant from the Andersen Foundation to fund the start-up of the “Swedish Model of Care” (became the Service Houses). In addition, a major gift from Dr. Edward Stanford established the Maverette E. Stanford Memorial Fund for Alzheimer’s Disease (in honor of his wife who died October 1996). “Dr. Stanford’s gift is of great significance to Lyngblomsten,” said Paul Mikelson, Lyngblomsten’s President and CEO at that time. “The funds will help accelerate the opening of the Alzheimer’s unit. The new endowment will provide financial support to help ensure continued excellence in our Alzheimer’s programs” (Life at Lyngblomsten, Winter 1996/97, page 8). Proceeds from the 1996 Spring Rhapsody and 1997 first annual Lyngblomsten Golf Classic also benefited the new Alzheimer’s program. In 1997, both the Lyngblomsten Stanford Alzheimer’s Unit and the first Swedish-style Service House opened.

Lyngblomsten’s Care Team Ministry program was up and running in 1998 with a boost from The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation which awarded the Lyngblomsten Foundation a $25,000 Faith in Action grant to establish the new program. 1998 also marked the first Husby Concert. Created to enhance Lyngblomsten’s music program, the Gertrude Husby Memorial Endowment (later renamed the Gertrude Husby and Ingebor Husby Smith Memorial Endowment) provides a variety of... avenues to incorporate music into the lives of those living on campus. “The donor knew how important music was in the life of Gertrude Husby and in providing meaningful worship opportunities and the power it can have in people’s lives,” said former Chaplain Lloyd Mart (Life at Lyngblomsten, Summer 1998, page 8).

In 1999, the Lyngblomsten Foundation launched a $4.5 million “Focused on the Future” Fund Drive—the most ambitious undertaking in Lyngblomsten’s history—to help fund the next five years of the latest strategic plan which took into account the many forces prompting change in the long-term healthcare industry. In October 2001, Lyngblomsten received a major challenge grant from the Kresge Foundation to finish the fund drive, and the goal was boosted to $4.7 million to accommodate this challenge. In April of 2002, the “Focused on the Future” fund drive was completed, exceeding their goal and raising more than $4.8 million. The Foundation was able to move forward with fund drive promises, including funding the renovation of the Care Center into neighborhoods to help facilitate person-centered care, increasing funding for community outreach and endowment, and exploring new senior housing. “It’s nice to have the affirmation of philanthropic supporters so Lyngblomsten can continue providing excellent, loving, professional care to the seniors we serve,” said Harold Kurtz, who was the Executive Director of the Lyngblomsten Foundation at that time (Life at Lyngblomsten, Summer 2002, page 1).

In 2006 Lyngblomsten celebrated the 100th anniversary of its incorporation. In recognition of this milestone year, a special fundraising appeal, “The Legacy Continues” Centennial Campaign, was launched and raised $164,000—exceeding the $150,000 goal, due in part to a major leadership matching gift from Gus and Mary Blanchard. The funds from the Centennial Campaign were used for improvements to the chapel, exploring the possible addition of a building to link the Care Center with The Heritage apartments (was ultimately deemed not feasible), and expanding The Gathering—a respite program that uses local churches and trained volunteers to provide a break for caregivers who are caring for a loved one experiencing memory loss.

“It just doesn’t matter how much you give; it’s the message you send by giving what you can—we all have the ability to love, and to share, with God’s help.”

—Mary Blanchard

In 2010 Lyngblomsten was awarded a Partners in Arts Participation Grant from Minnesota’s Arts and Cultural Heritage Fund administered through the Minnesota State Arts Board. The grant monies and funding from donors helped to establish Artful Living with Lyngblomsten, a program of fine arts events, workshops held by resident artists, and celebrations of creativity for older adults at Lyngblomsten and intergenerational community members. The Artful Living program aligns with Lyngblomsten’s philosophy of aging vibrantly—to be engaged in life as fully as possible and continue to have purpose through wellness of body, mind, and spirit—with lifelong learning and the arts as its hallmarks.

In 2011 the Lyngblomsten Auxiliary Legacy Fund was established to continue the vision of the Lyngblomsten Auxiliary into perpetuity. With half a century of dedicated service and financial support to Lyngblomsten’s residential programs and outreach services, the Lyngblomsten Auxiliary voted to formally dissolve their leadership as a separate organization and gift their role to a committee of the Lyngblomsten Foundation. Gifts made to the Auxiliary Legacy Fund are used to ensure the funds traditionally raised by the Auxiliary in the past have a new way to continue into the future—supporting special needs or funding “the extras” for the older adults Lyngblomsten serves.

Lyngblomsten Foundation is planning for how to help fund several of these visionary strategies. “As a staff leader and a grateful family member, I am personally excited about the new Lyngblomsten Strategic Priorities because I see a new generation of vision and commitment dedicated to providing unmatched care and services to meet the changing needs of future generations of older adults and their families,” shared Melanie Davis, the Lyngblomsten Foundation’s current Chief Development Officer.

Today, more than 110 years after the founding women’s first efforts, the legacy of philanthropy thrives, and the options for giving have never been greater (see page 8 to learn about “Ways to Give” to the Lyngblomsten Foundation). The Lyngblomsten Foundation serves as a link between the needs and dreams of those Lyngblomsten serves and our community of generous supporters. All share a belief in the importance of quality care, dignity, and choice so that older adults of all income levels can live full, rich and meaningful lives.

While this recap of the past 30 years of the Lyngblomsten Foundation highlights only some of the larger scale endeavors, it is important to note that this article barely touches the surface of all the contributions that have been made through the Foundation during that time. Large or small, each contribution has enhanced the lives of our older adults and supported the mission of Lyngblomsten.

Sweetest Day
Do small things with great love

by Christina Rhein, Lyngblomsten

Sweetest Day is a holiday celebrated primarily in the Midwest and parts of the Northeast U.S on the third Saturday in October. Some consider Sweetest Day to be a “coocked promotion” created by the candy industry solely to increase sales of sweets—like a Valentine’s Day in October. To others, though, it is a day to bestow romantic gestures and expressions, or a day to appreciate relatives and others who have had a meaningful impact on their lives.

In honor of this year’s Sweetest Day, celebrated on October 17, Dianne Strom, wife of Lyngblomsten resident Glen Strom, shared a sweet gesture she made for her husband of 20 years. When Glen moved into the care center last December, it was a tough transition and a lonely time for Dianne while she still lived at their home by herself.

In an effort to bring some cheer into her bedroom at home, she bought a colorful, floral comforter and matching red pillowcases. She often felt lonely and missed lying next to Glen, so she decided to bring Glen one of the red pillowcases. Each having one of the pillowcases was a way for them to feel connected while they were apart.

In a letter Dianne wrote to Glen when she gave him his red pillowcase, she said,

“Now I snuggle with it every night and think of you. Then I can sleep. I brought one for you too—you can snuggle with it and know I love you!”

This year, challenge yourself to celebrate Sweetest Day by brightening the life of an older adult—maybe there’s a neighbor, friend, parent, grandparent, aunt, uncle, spouse, or just someone you know who would appreciate a thoughtful gesture. Sweetest Day is simply a reminder that a thoughtful word, deed or small gift enriches the life of the recipient as well as the person giving it.

Minneapolis has a new central system for reporting suspected maltreatment of vulnerable adults

Effective July 1, 2015, the Minnesota Department of Human Services has created a new central system for reporting the suspected maltreatment of vulnerable adults. This central system, called the “Minnesota Adult Abuse Reporting Center,” creates a streamlined system for citizen access to reporting across Minnesota.

To report suspected maltreatment of vulnerable adults, call 844-880-1574.

There is a toll-free phone number for use statewide by the general public, available 24/7: 844-880-1574.

Minnesota encourages good-faith reporting of suspected maltreatment of vulnerable adults by any person. If you make a report, your identity is kept confidential and cannot be released without a court order.

Mandated reporters—law enforcement, educators, doctors, nurses, social workers, and other licensed professionals—can also make a report online by visiting www.mn.gov/dhs/reportadultabuse.

The 4 Ps of Planning an Estate
Utilizing Planners to Maximize Gifts and Estate Plans
by Melanie Davis, Chief Development Officer

Sometimes it’s very difficult to think about the end of our life. For most of us, life is full and busy and we believe death is so far away that it seems unnecessary to think about it in the present. By avoiding thinking about the end of life, somehow we think we can also avoid the fear and discomfort that goes with it. While on the surface that may seem true, in truth, thinking about and preparing for the future can actually set us free and give us more confidence to live life more fully in the present. In addition, a clear plan that our loved ones can more easily carry out can be one of the final and very important ways that we show our care and concern for them.

In our previous articles, we have written about the first three Ps of successful estate planning: People, Property, and Plans. In this article, we discuss the Planners who can assist us with important end-of-life planning. So, who is it we need to consult when we have considered who the important people are in our lives, what property we have to share, and what plans we know we need to make? Who are the planners who can guide us, especially when we want to plan holistically and not just financially?

A trusted estate attorney is often the first professional to consult in the estate planning process, particularly if you have questions related to various estate planning options or legal implications of your estate plan. Working together, you can design a plan that will not only benefit those you care about at the time of your death, but you may also structure your plan to provide for future generations as well. Your attorney can ensure that your estate will be distributed according to your wishes. Without a will, your estate will be distributed according to the prescribed inheritance laws of the state in which you reside. To learn more about the Minnesota inheritance laws, visit the Minnesota Attorney General website (www.ag.state.mn.us/brochures/pubProbateandPlanning.pdf) to download an informative probate and planning guide.

Depending on the complexity of your estate, you may also want to consult a CPA (certified public accountant). Because a CPA must stay abreast of the current estate and gift laws, he/she can advise you on the best ways to design your plans in order to receive the maximum tax advantages and savings for the estate. In addition, a financial planner can be an excellent resource to include in the estate planning because he/she can advise strategies that utilize your investments, such as IRA’s, 401(k)s and other options to grow your estate until it is passed on to heirs.

If you have thought about supporting one or more charities in your estate planning, it may also be helpful to visit with a charitable or planned gift officer at those organization(s). Together, you can explore how your gift could be impactful in the lives of those being served by the organization and how you can restrict your gift to go toward the program or cause you care most about. The gift officer can also share with you ways that you can benefit financially, while you are still alive, by making a charitable gift, such as a charitable gift annuity or establishing a charitable unitrust.

While it is important to ensure that our property is distributed to the people and organizations we care most about, it is also important that we plan well for our funerals, as this can often be a source of stress and conflict for family members in the midst of grief. By consulting with a mortuary, you can explore various funeral options and decide on the choices, budget, and payment plan that best suit your wishes. In addition, through planning with your spiritual leader, family and/or friends, you can also ensure that your funeral service reflects the values, messages and atmosphere that are important to you and your loved ones.

Planning for the end of one’s life is important. The good news is that you do not have to plan alone, nor should you. Depending on the complexity of your estate, there are expert planners to assist you. Not only can they help plan and ensure that your wishes are carried out, but they may also help you to realize options you never knew were possible to benefit you, your estate, and those you care most about.

Lyngblomsten is hosting a series of classes throughout the year to provide helpful information regarding estate and end-of-life planning. Sessions are being taught by local planning professionals. Upcoming classes this fall include: “Give Now, Give Later, Give and Receive” on Tuesday, October 13 and “Estate Strategies” on Tuesday, November 10. See pages 18 and 19 for class details.
Seeking volunteers to help in friendly, social atmosphere at Anna's café & gifts

by Shelli Beck, Lead Volunteer Coordinator

Volunteer staff play a large role in the operation of the café and gift shop. Jay Frazier and Esther Nelson (pictured above) are both volunteers at Anna's. Jay has been volunteering for two summers, and he enjoys the friendly atmosphere of the café. He volunteers at the café for just a few hours on Wednesday afternoons, but joked, "I could serve ice cream all day!"

Lyngblomsten volunteers who attend Esther's church, St. Timothy Lutheran (a corporate congregation), encouraged Esther to get involved with Lyngblomsten. Now two and a half years later, she continues to volunteer and spends one afternoon per month at Anna's. Visiting with the customers in the café is what she enjoys most.

While Lyngblomsten offers many volunteer opportunities throughout campus, we especially need more volunteers for Anna’s who would like to scoop ice cream, work as a cashier, or do weekly cleaning. These are three separate positions.

Anna’s volunteer staff cover shifts Monday–Friday from 9 AM–1 PM and 1–4 PM, and Saturday and Sundays from noon–4 PM. Individual volunteers are welcome and will be paired with a current seasoned volunteer. Two-person teams are also welcome to join together. All training is provided...as well as an abundance of appreciation and support! Learn more about Anna’s café and gifts at www.lyngblomsten.org/Annas.

Additional Lyngblomsten volunteer opportunities with current openings:

- Co-facilitate a story circle (help lead discussion around a specified topic)
- Host a music class
- Deal a game of 500
- Play a game of cribbage
- Score a game of bowling
- Paint fingernails
- Deliver evening snacks to residents

Lyngblomsten Volunteer Stats for June, July & August 2015

- 5,275 hours
- 388 unique volunteers

19th Annual Lyngblomsten Charity Golf Classic: Supporting Memory Loss

by Tim Overweg, Manager of Volunteer Services and Special Events

Monday, August 3, was the sort of summer day that we Minnesotans live for—sunshine, warmth, a bit of a breeze, a lack of humidity ... a day that banishes all thoughts of winter, and a day perfect for golf. Such was the day for the 19th Annual Lyngblomsten Charity Golf Classic.

Keller Golf Course in Maplewood was the venue for 130 golfers, playing either 18 holes or participating in a 9-hole putting contest, and all of them committed to raising awareness and funding for The Gathering, a Lyngblomsten program offering support, services and respite to those living with and impacted by memory loss. This collective commitment resulted in more than $54,000 raised and dedicated to the cause.

The success of this event is the result of the passion and labor of the Golf Classic Committee, the Lyngblomsten Community Engagement Team, The Gathering staff, generous sponsors, and dozens of giving and gifted volunteers.

And as the sun set over the Keller links, some guests enjoyed a beverage on the patio after a tasty meal, others picked up their winning live auction or raffle item, and a lucky few celebrated and admired their prizes and trophies. The 20th Lyngblomsten Charity Golf Classic is already on the books for Monday, August 1, 2016. Mark it down and help keep the momentum going.

Our Supporters—A Work of Heart!

by Tim Overweg, Manager of Volunteer Services and Special Events

Lyngblomsten Supporters Appreciation Event
Friday, November 6, 2015
5 PM at Vadnais Heights Commons

Our Supporters—A Work of Heart! How true that is. Most people don’t offer their beneficence because they are bored or are required to; they do so because they have giving hearts. They are individuals who believe that many people, offering numerous small gifts of service, make a huge impact in organizations, neighborhoods, schools, churches, towns, and cities.

“Our Supporters—A Work of Heart” is the theme for the upcoming Lyngblomsten Supporters Appreciation Event being held Friday, November 6, at Vadnais Heights Commons. This is a time for the Community Engagement Department and the staff of Lyngblomsten to say "thank you" to those who give their time, money, energy, skill, leadership, and service to enhancing the lives of our older adults through their involvement with Lyngblomsten. This is a celebration for all those who share in the joy of making Lyngblomsten the community it is.

The entertainment this year will be a very special treat: sand artist Joe Castillo. Joe was a finalist on the 7th season of America’s Got Talent and finished in 5th place overall. You will not be disappointed by Joe’s "Sandstory" performance.

This event is by invitation only. RSVP required. For additional information about the Supporters Appreciation Event, please call Tim Overweg at (651) 632-5319 or Laura Brandt at (651) 632-5324.
